Peterborough parents' warning: Babies under one hit hardest by meningitis and septicaemia.

Jacque and Tony Pasqualone

Son Joseph contracted Group B Streptococcal (GBS) meningitis at 5 weeks old in 1999. Thankfully he made a full recovery and has no side effects which is incredible considering his ordeal. Said Jacque: "My son Joseph was among one of the 1000 babies who contract meningitis every year in the UK. We were so lucky he survived, but we know that others aren't so lucky. Two babies die from meningitis every week, and those who survive can be left with after-effects as severe as brain damage, deafness and amputations. This is why why I wanted to support Meningitis Reseach Foundation's awareness campaign."
