Tirion's advice:

“Initially I was worried about the fundraising aspect of the challenge as I had never done it before, but I soon realized there was plenty of support in reaching my target. The regular one-to-one sessions with MRF, where we brainstormed fundraising ideas, were extremely helpful and allowed me to cater my fundraising activities to my lifestyle and use the resources I had. For example, going back to my secondary school to hold a cake sale and having a coffee morning at my home. Both events were extremely successful and raised over £100 each. There were plenty of group fundraising opportunities too such as bucket collections and a pub quiz. I was extremely well supported throughout the process and would recommend it to anyone!”
