Isaac's highlight:

Isaac was fantastic at thinking 'outside-the-box' when it came to thinking of fundraising ideas. He came up with a very unique idea, of pulling a horse tram through his home town with a friend whilst family members walked alongside collecting spare change from passing members of the public. He got his local newspaper to write an article about the

Isaac's advice:

"My advice to any future trekkers would be to fundraise from all angles and entertain any idea as charity events can be integrated into anything from auctions, bag packs, bucket collections and sponsored challenges. Also to make use of social media as showing people that you're serious about fundraising will make them more likely to donate!"
